Public Health England (PHE) has been assessing and monitoring air quality in the area surrounding Grenfell Tower since 14 June 2017. PHE would like to inform local people of changes to air quality monitoring around the Grenfell Tower site.

Dr Deborah Turbitt, deputy director for health protection at PHE London, said:

“The independent air quality monitoring we commissioned has shown the risk to people's health from air pollution around the Grenfell Tower site to be consistently low. No asbestos has been detected, levels of particulate matter remain low, and monitoring results for other air pollutants (such as dioxins, furans, PCBs and PAHs) have been equivalent to background levels for London.

“The air quality monitoring strategy is regularly reviewed based on activities around the site. As activity on the site has reduced and the Tower is now fully covered, the strategy is being changed to stop monitoring for dioxins, furans, PCBs, and PAHs as these chemicals are no longer likely to be released.

“The monitoring for particulate matter and asbestos will continue, to provide a baseline level, and ensure we are able to assess any impacts on air quality as and when any further activity takes place on the site.”

PHE's weekly environmental monitoring reports for Grenfell Tower will continue to be published online at the following link bit.ly/2tm3DDY

Grenfell Tower Inquiry continues in September

Phase one of the Grenfell Tower Inquiry returns on Monday 3 September. It will continue to look at the events of June 14 2017, with evidence provided by firefighters, emergency service responders, and senior figures from London Fire Brigade. This evidence will feature videos, pictures and first person accounts from the night itself – as a result it could be distressing for many. The inquiry is then scheduled to hear evidence from bereaved families, survivors and local residents in October, before moving to expert witnesses in late November.

The inquiry is held at Holborn Bars, 138-142 Holborn, EC1N 2SW, where members of the public are able to attend if they wish.

To keep up to date with the Inquiry, follow @GrenfellInquiry on Twitter and for all the information on evidence, discussions, news and the Inquiry schedule, visit www.grenfelltowerinquiry.org.uk

The Inquiry is streamed live on YouTube and links to the stream are shared on the Grenfell Inquiry Twitter page each morning (www.twitter.com/GrenfellInquiry) and are shared by Grenfell Support (www.twitter.com/GrenfellSupport).

There is a range of support on offer to anyone who feels affected by the ongoing Grenfell Tower Inquiry. The Grenfell Health and Wellbeing Service and Hestia are available all day at the Inquiry. Support is also available online on the Grenfell Wellbeing website where you can self-refer: www.grenfellwellbeing.com

Accessing your home during Carnival

The Council has designated safe zones that will not be open to the public during Carnival. One zone covers the local area around Grenfell Tower. Residents who live in these areas will still be able to access their homes on foot, but will need to have ID showing their name and address, such as a bank statement, Council Tax statement, utility bill or driving licence.

A map has been uploaded to the Grenfell Support website outlining a cordon around the Grenfell Tower area. Residents who live within the blue cordon on this map can collect up to six wristbands, with a proof of address, as an alternative to using their ID from Unit 7 Baseline Studios or The Curve, 10 Bard Road, W10 6TP or Kensington Leisure Centre, Silchester Road, W10 6EX.

You can find a full sized version of this map online at bit.ly/2Lnor6

Earn while you learn with paid training courses

Have you just finished your GCSEs or A levels? Not sure what to do next? Why not apply for a paid training course from Repowering London?

You could earn £10 an hour working two-to-six hours a week over a four-month period. This training, that is accredited by the educational awarding body AQA, will help you boost your employability, learn life skills and meet new people. You will be trained through a combination of classroom-based learning, trips and practical work.

You will gain new skills for your CV such as:

- community engagement
- social media and marketing
- energy efficiency
- renewable energy technologies
- solar panel making.

To qualify for this course you must live in North Kensington and be aged 16 to 19. Spaces are filling fast so email, text or call to register interest on 07395 621 925 or dave.fuller@repowering.org.uk

Changes to the Grenfell Night Support Service over bank holiday weekend
The Grenfell Night Support Service at Notting Hill Methodist Church will operate a reduced service over the bank holiday weekend. A joint statement from Hestia and NHS Central North West London States:

“Hestia’s Listening & Overnight Support service will be temporarily closed from Friday morning, 24 August at 8am and will re-open on Tuesday night, 28 August at 10pm.

There will be a night service open over the weekend, at the Notting Hill Methodist Church, staffed by health professionals from CNWL; that is on Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday nights from 10pm to 8am.

If you are in emotional distress and need help and support over the weekend you can also contact the NHS free of charge on 0800 0234 650 or call the Samaritans on 116 123. You can also visit the oknottofeelok.org website. In a life-threatening emergency visit A&E or call 999.”

GCSE students do themselves proud
Congratulations to all the young people across the borough who received their GCSE results this week. We know how hard all students and teachers in the borough have worked and we hope this dedication will pave the way to an exciting new chapter of your lives.

Sion-Manning Secondary School celebrated its last set of GCSE results on a high as from September the school will become co-educational and be known as All Saints. This year the school’s students improved on previous years, with 10 per cent achieving five or more grade 7s or higher.

Cardinal Vaughan saw over half its pupils securing grades 7 to 9 (equivalent to A and A*) and three pupils achieved straight 9s in all the subjects they sat.

Chelsea Academy are also celebrating as 91 per cent of their students passed English and 75 per cent passed maths. The Academy are in the top 10 per cent for schools based on progress measured.

You will be able to access more information on the borough-wide results from next week. This information will be amplified on the RBKC twitter (www.twitter.com/RBKC).
